How the Lex Mundi Network works

Lex Mundi’s network provides you and your clients with access to quality lawyers with “on-the-ground” expertise in every major commercial jurisdiction. If you have a client with legal needs in a jurisdiction other than your own, you can call upon another Lex Mundi member firm with confidence

To initiate a referral (either inbound or outbound), please reach out to the firm’s contact person on their member firm profile or to one of the firm’s practice area contacts found on Lex Search

Referrals Learn more

Lex Mundi also offers you the capability to service the needs of your clients on significant cross-border matters involving multiple jurisdictions. This capability is described in the Support for your clients section.

Equisphere

Equisphere, Lex Mundi's service delivery model, is designed for significant cross-border client projects requiring careful coordination between our network's 150+ leading independent law firms.

Lex Mundi remains the same as it has always been - but delivered in a new and more powerful way. With Equisphere, work is delivered through more effective oversight, control of budgets, deliverables, deadlines and tailored precisely to a client's geographical footprint; essentially, Equisphere is an opportunity for clients to design their ideal international law firm.

Through Equisphere, our firms join forces in a digital workspace that allows a single, accessible flow of information, all with key documents and data on a shared, easy to use dashboard. Additionally, Equisphere is supported by both a member of the Lex Mundi Technology and Innovation team and a member of the Global Markets team to ensure that member firms and clients can make the best use of the tools.

Global Horizon scanning

Lex Mundi's Global Horizon scan tool helps companies spot unidentified future vulnerabilities and blind spots. This methodology assigns multi-year rankings to various areas of risk and provides qualitative indications of potential problems. Contacts are listed in each jurisdiction for follow-up questions. Each scan includes a scoping call and a follow-up call with your firm and your client.

Client development roundtables

Help your clients get up to speed on key jurisdictions by working with the Global Markets team to organise a briefing session for an important client of the firm.

Roundtables have been used for clients to understand local market economic developments and business conditions as well as specific areas of law. Roundtables can be held virtually in the client's office or coupled with a Lex Mundi event.

General Counsel roundtables

Together with your firm's partners, Lex Mundi can customise and co-facilitate a General Counsel roundtable with clients at your firm to share our unique global thought leadership.

General Counsel roundtables allow your firm to bring together a client audience ranging from 10-30 General Counsels, who invariably value the chance to discuss high-level global concerns with their peers. During the session, Lex Mundi offers insights on what we have seen and learned from leading companies around the world.
